RBR Group secures 1st contract award at Mozambique's LNG projects since Force Majeure lifted

- Initial contract for construction worker accommodation modules awarded to RBR Group subsidiary Projectos Dinamicos Lda ("PD") as subcontractor to the Italian corporate Bonatti International and Mota-Engil consortium, contractors to Exxon's Rovuma LNG.
- Scope of works requires manufacture and delivery of 32 accommodation modules plus ancillary ablution facilities for at least 100 people.
- PD has been awarded approximately US$2 million of a circa US$7 million contract, awarded jointly to PD and a South African-based supplier, with requirements for accelerated delivery.

PD will be assessed by Bonatti as to process quality controls and critical delivery criteria and remain confident on both production and logistics.

Under the terms of the contract, work is scheduled to begin in early November 2026, with delivery due in late January 2027. The Company has already begun logistics arrangements for the first delivery.

This award is stage 1 of the larger Bonatti contract which entails a camp accommodation facility and associated infrastructure for approximately 700 personnel. Delivery within scope, on time and on budget will greatly enhance the likelihood of PD securing further work on this significant project.

Non Exec RBR Director based in Africa, Athol Emerton, said:

"The award of this first contract, albeit modest in value, represents a major step forward by PD in its pursuit of more significant contracts aligned to the early-stage construction works at the Rovuma LNG development located on the Afungi Peninsula, Palma, Northern Mozambique."

In addition to the Bonatti opportunity, PD and associated group company Futuro Skills are parties to current tender applications totalling some US$100m in value and this initial award now signals the unlocking of the opportunities in Mozambique for RBR since the lifting of Force Majeure in 2025.
